Dear Tracy-

Writing to Jo Muller, I couldn't help thinking (or feeling) how I had lost contact with you, and that some of the things I wrote him about I did want to communicate to you. It will save me some effort to just enclose a copy.

There is something else I want to add. Another aspect of a shaking-up I have been through is both more personal and more overt. Esther and I met just over 20 years ago at an occasion you will remember— the 1946 CSH symposium. During the last several months, I have been separated from her, and will wait for the courts to grind out a divorce in the Gullness of time. So there is another sphere to start over again in.

Esther hasn't taken this inimize lightly (nor have I though spread over much longer time); but we are both coming along ok. She is continuing her line of work in Bruce Stocker's lab now (in the Med. Microbiology Dept.)

Any chance of seeing you out here? I probably travel even less than you do (namely hardly at all), and at that Bloomington is somewhat less of a transportation hub than San Francisco. Perhaps next fall at the Genetics Soc. meetings, if not sooner?

As ever,
